Overall Read

The campaigns are performing strongly at the top of the funnel: high CTR and engagement rate show the ad creative, messaging, and targeting are landing well, people are willing to click, share, or comment. But the drop from 216K impressions down to only 1.3K purchases, a purchase rate of just 0.61%, shows a sharp fall-off once you get past initial interest. This is a classic "strong awareness, weak action" pattern: the ads earn attention but something between the click and the purchase, whether that's the landing page, the offer, or a targeting mismatch, is losing most of that interest before it converts.

Audience Breakdown

- By gender: Female 13K (43%), Male 6K (22%), Other/Not Specified 10K (35%). Females engage noticeably more than males, so campaigns could be tailored more toward a female audience.
- By age: engagement peaks in the 20 to 30 range, particularly early 20s, and drops off sharply after 35. The core audience is clearly young adults.
- Takeaway: the strongest-responding segment is females aged roughly 18 to 30, worth prioritizing in targeting decisions.

Geographic Patterns

- Top engaged countries: US, India, Brazil, Germany, and UK are the major contributors.
- India and the US stand out as high-volume, high-engagement markets worth continued focus.

- Germany and the UK likely represent smaller but higher-value audiences given stronger purchasing power there, making them good candidates for premium or higher-offer campaigns rather than volume plays.

Time-Based Patterns

- Weekly: engagement stays fairly consistent week to week with no sharp drop-off, suggesting the ads maintain attention over time rather than fatiguing quickly.
- Hourly: engagement peaks in the late afternoon and evening, roughly hours 15 to 20, and is lowest in the early morning, roughly hours 0 to 5. Scheduling delivery around the afternoon/evening window would likely maximize impact.
- Calendar: activity mapped across June shows noticeably higher engagement on certain dates, notably the 19th to 21st and the 25th to 27th, possibly tied to promotions or campaign launches. This suggests event-based or promotional pushes meaningfully lift engagement.

Format Performance

| Format   | Impressions | Clicks | CTR   | Purchase Rate | Conversion Rate | Engagement Rate |
|----------|-------------|--------|-------|---------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| Carousel | 48K         | 6K     | 11.7% | 0.59%         | 5.1%            | 13.4%           |
| Image    | 51K         | 6K     | 11.7% | 0.57%         | 4.9%            | 13.5%           |
| Stories  | 72K         | 8K     | 11.8% | 0.65%         | 5.2%            | 13.6%           |
| Video    | 46K         | 5K     | 11.9% | 0.62%         | 5.2%            | 13.7%           |

Video leads on CTR, conversion rate, and engagement rate, making it the best-performing format overall. Stories also perform strongly and pull in the highest impression volume. Image and Carousel hold up reasonably well but convert slightly less efficiently than the other two.

Recommendations

1. Awareness and engagement are strong, but purchase efficiency is weak: prioritize fixing the lower funnel through better landing pages, sharper offers, and retargeting.
2. Focus targeting on females aged 18 to 30, particularly in India and Brazil where engagement is highest.
3. Shift more budget toward Video and Stories formats, since they consistently outperform on conversion and engagement.
4. Schedule ad delivery for afternoon and evening hours to align with peak activity.
5. Reallocate budget toward the highest-performing geographies and formats rather than spreading spend evenly.
6. Treat landing page quality, offer strength, and retargeting campaigns as the top levers for lifting the purchase rate.
